

Simple Event Entry system still in use at Perstorp

Perstorp and its sister company Solvay Interox are major chemical companies operating from their site in Warrington. They started using action management systems developed by Strategic Safety systems many years ago, and have a comprehensive system for reporting and analysing hazards, near misses and accidents. The Event Entry system is linked into the main system and enables anyone to quickly enter a record.

Benefits

- Events are entered quickly using one click from the opening screen
- Paper forms with their time delay, transcription effort and potential for copying errors are avoided
- An e-mail is automatically sent to the H&S Co-ordinator when the data is entered
- The person entering the information can see progress

This picture shows the event entry screen. The type box enables the person to state whether it is a hazard, injury, etc. Once entered, the person clicks the SEND button and an e-mail is sent to the H&S Co-ordinator.

The person can track what is happening as a result of submitting this report by being able to select the event number from the opening screen (not shown.)

This is an example of integrated action management systems provided by Strategic Safety Systems.
